An elegant French early 19th century Louis XV st. giltwood and marble rectangular side table. The table is raised by cabriole legs with hoof feet and most decorative carvings with a seashell cabochon at each corner. The scalloped shaped frieze is decorated with beautiful lattice designs. At the front is a single drawer and the sides and back are centered by fine seashell reserves. Above is the original Vert Maurin marble top, fitted within a beautifully carved giltwood border with an etched lattice designed background. All original gilt throughout.
