A striking Italian mid 18th century Louis XVI period giltwood and Sienna marble console. The freestanding console is raised by three elegant circular tapered fluted legs with acanthus leaf carvings and fine cabochons above. Above each leg are beautiful block rosettes flanking the straight frieze which displays charming scrolled foliate movements set on a hammered background. Above is the original thick Sienna Brocatelle marble top with an elegant scalloped shaped border and a fine double mottled edge. All original gilt throughout.
