A stunning Dutch 17th century still life painting signed and dated by Carel Van Hullegarden 1653. The still life is framed within a beautiful and richly carved 19th century giltwood frame with a coeur de rai pattern and mottled design with striking foliate movements. The painting displays an impressive array of striking vivid colors and depicts a farm table with a wicker basket full of fruit. The overflowing basket is filled with a wonderful selection of realistic and wonderfully executed apples, peaches, grapes, cherries, oranges and lemons to name a few. On the table is a knife and a cut lemon and orange. Wonderful attention to detail. All original gilt.
