A striking French 18th century Louis XV period giltwood and Sarrancolin marble console. The wall mounted console is raised by richly carved and most decorative giltwood cabriole legs centered by large acanthus. Each pierced and elegantly scrolled cabriole leg is adorned with finely carved floral designs, rich seashell reserves and joined by a beautiful scrolled foliate stretcher. The superb pierced scalloped shaped frieze displays an etched lattice pattern and is centered by a most decorative floral and scrolled reserve. All below the original Sarrancolin marble top with rounded corners and a fine double mottled border. All original gilt throughout.
