A charming and most elegant French 18th century Louis XVI period patinated wood and Bleu Turquin marble console. The demi lune shaped freestanding console is raised by lovely circular lightly tapered legs with fine topie shaped feet and mottled top caps. Above each leg are block reserves flanking a wonderful fluted design and carved fillet with a most decorative contrasting white color. Above is the original Bleu Turquin marble top which can be slid out of the way to reveal a unique concealed storage compartment. All original patina throughout.
