A sensational and very high quality French early 18th century Regence period giltwood double frame mirror, circa 1720. The mirror retains all of its original mirror plates throughout with the central one set within a unique and most decorative wave designed border which also extends along the outer border of the frame. At the base is a striking richly carved seashell reserve flanked by pierced scrolled movements and remarkable foliate designs at each side with charming feet. Similar striking pierced foliate movements with exceptional scrolled seashell designs are repeated at each side and leading to the impressive top crown which is centered by a stunning seashell above a superb lattice designed pattern. All original gilt throughout.
