A stunning and extremely high quality French 19th century Charles X st. ormolu centerpiece with pot pourri top. The centerpiece is raised by a triangular base with concave sides and striking and unique double lion paw feet. Above are striking foliate and open wing designs with maidens in armor centering beautiful family crests and a cabochon border above, with a finely chased central fut. At the top are four elegant scrolled arms accented with foliate and rosettes, centered by a beautiful pierced removable lid. The intricately scrolled pierced lid is accented with a crown designed top that can be removed to view the ormolu lined interior. All original fire gilt throughout.
