A stunning French 19th century Louis XV st. giltwood and Portoro marble console. The wall mounted console is raised by elegantly scrolled legs with beautiful foliate feet. Each leg is attached by an outstanding stretcher with a large pieced central foliate reserve. Leading up are additional striking richly carved foliate designs and wonderful carved cabochons at each corner. The superb arbalest shaped frieze displays a striking pierced lattice pattern and a large impressive central shell with rich foliate movements and lovely finely detailed swaging floral garlands. Above is the original handsome Portoro marble top with a lovely double mottled border which follow the shape of the console. With all original gilt throughout.
