A most elegant French 19th century Louis XVI st. giltwood and marble freestanding console. The console is raised by elegant circular tapered fluted legs with a beautiful spiral design. Each leg displays fine fluted topie shaped feet and lovely foliate capitals. The stretcher displays a concave shape with a most decorative carved berried laurel band and a charming central floral reserve. At the intricately pierced apron are richly carved foliate scrolled movements with a decorative central reserve and a fine beaded band. Above is the original Fleur de Pêcher marble top with a fine mottled border.
