A very elegant and high quality French 19th century Louis XVI st. Mahogany drop leaf dining table. The table is raised on six circular tapered legs ending with Ormolu sabots above the original wood casters. At each end of the table is a drop leaf which folds down to allow the table to be placed against a wall, stored or used as a console. Elegant Ormolu pulls highlight the supports which can be pulled out to hold the drop leaf, and two additional extensions can be added for additional seating. Fine bronze latches hold the extensions in place firmly and showcase the stunning wood grain of the Mahogany top.
