A stunning and extremely decorative French 19th century Louis XVI st. ormolu and beaded glass chandelier. The six arm ten light chandelier is centered by exceptional wonderfully executed oak branches with charming intricately detailed oak leaves with finely etched details and charming acorns tied with a ribbon and leading up the body to beautiful candle cups. The elegantly shaped body displays a striking array of swaging cut faceted glass beaded garlands in an elegant montgolfière shape with charming ribbons and delicate chains with blooming flowers encasing the concealed light bulbs emitting a wonderful warm glow. The top crown above displays fine leaves and berried designs in a remarkable satin and burnished finish.
