A French 19th Century Louis XVI st. Tulipwood, Kingwood and marble cabinet/vitrine. The vitrine is raised by topie shaped front legs and square tapered legs in the back, with all legs ending with decorative ormolu sabots. The legs flank the straight apron which is decorated by a central pierced ormolu reserve. Above are the two doors with a decorative inlaid lattice designs within a Kingwood border, and fitted with ormolu hinges and elaborate keyhole escutcheons. The glass fitted door is flanked by two top decorative ormolu mounts with a central cartouche below a swaging laurel garland. The glass door fitted with the same hinges and keyhole escutcheon as below displays one interior upholstered shelf. Above is the original white & grey veined marble top.
