An exceptional and most elegant French 19th century solid white Carrara marble statue/basin signed Henri Leon Greber. The statue titled "Narcisse" is raised by a beautiful and unique basin with a fine mottled border and lovely curved tapered backplate with a central sculpted reserve and fine tied floral designs. Above is the wonderfully executed statue standing in front of beautiful water flora and exceptionally sculpted flowing hair with most charming flowers.

Henri-Léon Greber (28 May 1854 - 4 June 1941) was a French sculptor, and medallist. His son was the architect Jacques Gréber. Active in the United States, he produced a fountain sculpture of four equestrian statues for Harbor Hill in 1910, (restored in 1957 and installed at Mill Creek Park, adjacent to the Country Club Plaza in Kansas City, Missouri) and the copy of The Kiss in the Philadelphia Rodin Museum.
