An extremely high quality and large scale pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Belle Époque period Vert Antique and ormolu urns, attributed to Henri Dasson. Each impressive urn is raised by a mottled base with protruding sides accented by fine scrolled and etched ormolu mounts. Above the socle pedestal is the elegantly shaped body that has a striking sculpted reeded design. Leading up each side are powerfully scrolled ormolu handles with acanthus leaves and richly chased lion heads. At the center is a pierced foliate and palmette designed ormolu band. The beautiful mottled lid displays fine foliate movements and an outstanding ormolu acorn final. Wonderful satin and burnished finish throughout.
