A striking and high quality pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. Belle Époque period Vert Antique marble and ormolu urns. Each urn is raised by a square marble base with a fine bottom ormolu band below the elegantly curved socle shaped pedestal support. The marble body is encased within beautiful richly chased swaging blooming flower garlands tied at the center and connecting to impressive intricately detailed Bacchanalian horned satyr masks at each side with grape leaves and clusters in their hair, and joined by a fine wrap around mottled berried laurel band. Above the lightly curved neck is a delicate tied wrap around reeded band and top richly chased acorn finial amidst lovely palmettes.
