A striking and high quality pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. ormolu three arm sconces, after a model by Claude Galle. Each sconce is centered by elegant bottom tassels with beautiful richly chased acorns and oak leaves which encase the central fut. The elegantly scrolled arms display mottled designs and lovely tapered fluted candle cups. Above are small charming trumpets and top supports which lead up to striking tied oak leaf and acorn wreaths.

Claude Galle (1759-1815) A renowned French Bronzier of the late Louis XVI and Empire periods. Galle created pieces for the palaces of Fontainebleau, Versailles, Saint-Cloud, Compiègne, and many in Italy. He also produced numerous pieces for Napoleon Bonaparte and received many awards. Today his work is found in the worlds most important museums and collections.
