An elegant and very high quality pair of Italian mid 19th century Louis XVI st. patinated and giltwood consoles. Each demi-lune shaped freestanding console is raised by slender square tapered fluted legs with lovely gilt inserts and fine ball feet. Above each leg is a beautiful giltwood rosette flanking remarkable richly carved interlocking laurel branches centering additional rosettes and all set on a patinated off white background. Above are the original white Carrara marble tops with fine decorative fillets at the border. All original gilt and patina throughout.
