An elegant and richly carved true pair of French 19th century Louis XV st. giltwood consoles. Each console is raised by beautiful scrolled cabriole legs decorated by foliate designs and acanthus leaves. The legs are joined by striking stretchers with pierced central reserves surrounded by scrolls. The pierced scalloped shaped aprons display pierced central seashell reserves flanked by wavelike designs and foliate branches. The scalloped shaped sides are also decorated in the same manner. Above are the original, thick Incarna Turquin marble tops with a mottled border.
