A stunning Italian 19th century Louis XV st. faux painted marble, giltwood and Brocatelle d’Espagne marble console and its original matching mirror. The freestanding console is raised by a wonderfully executed faux painted marble base and three impressive richly carved scrolled supports adorned with beautiful richly carved flowers. Each support is connected by a most impressive intricately detailed pierced scrolled foliate stretcher below a most decorative mirrored backplate. The apron displays additional stunning scrolled foliate carvings with beautiful central Fleur de Lys reserves. Above a fine carved twisted robe fillet is the original Brocatelle d’Espagne marble top with an elegant mottled border. The original matching mirror above retains it's original beveled mirror plate set within a most decorative scrolled mottled frame. The giltwood frame displays a lovely curvaceous shape with fine feet at each side which center a handsome mask amidst scrolled movements. A striking twisted ribbon carved band extends throughout the frame adorned with wonderfully detailed acanthus leaves and flowers leading up to the most impressive and richly carved pierced top crown with a trophy shaped reserve overflowing with a charming bouquet of flowers. All original gilt throughout.
