A charming and most decorative Italian early 19th century Baroque st. giltwood and faux painted marble console and its matching mirror. The console is raised by a fine stepped mottled bottom support with a wonderfully executed ground design and charming leaves. Striking interlocking branches are seemingly growing out of the ground with large richly carved grape leaves and clusters of grapes. Additional branches and charming grape leaves extend upwards to the frieze with beautiful smaller interlocking branches. The top displays its original masterfully executed faux painted marble top framed within a giltwood band with elegant finely carved fillets. The mirror above retains its original mirror plate framed within a stunning and wonderfully executed luxuriant scrolled branches with beautiful grape leaves and additional clusters of grapes. Smaller interlocking branches extend throughout the frame leading up to the impressive and richly carved pierced top crown with additional leaves and charming grapes. All original gilt throughout.
