A stunning and extremely decorative Italian early 19th century Neo-Classical st. patinated wood and Scagliola center table. The rectangular table is raised by most impressive legs with handsome paws concealing their original casters and large richly carved acanthus leaves with exceptional lion heads at each corner with iron rings in their mouths flanking the straight apron with a fine wrap around foliate band. Above is the original Scagliola top with a stunning array of colorful scrolled foliate designs, lovely blooming flowers, charming personages dressed in period attire, a unique spider hanging from a web, an ant, and a butterfly centering a graceful scene of an Italian town all framed within an outstanding triple mottled border. All original patina throughout.
