A wonderful and extremely decorative Italian late 18th century early 19th century two tone patinated Verde and silvered vitrine. The vitrine is raised by a mottled silvered leaf plinth having four doors with diamond and triangular shaped raised panels separated by faux painted marbled columns with a central carved rosette. Above are the four glass panel doors with all original hardware likewise separated. Inside lays three shelves each and electrified on both sides. The top has an impressive crown with silvered rosettes above four slender elongated doors.
