A wonderful French early 19th century First Empire period crouch mahogany and fire gilded ormolu console. The free standing console is raised by a concave bottom tier below four legs. The front two scrolled square tapered legs display handsome, richly chased ormolu paw feet and high quality palmettes ormolu mounts in a satin and burnished finish. At the straight frieze is a drawer centered by an impressive pierced ormolu mount with palmettes and flanked by rich pierced foliate pierced ormolu mounts. Above is the original rectangular white Carrara marble top. All original fire gilt.
