An impressive and large scale pair of French 19th century Louis XVI st. cobalt blue porcelain and ormolu vases, possibly Sèvres. Each vase is raised on a circular ormolu base with three feet, and a reeded floral pattern below a striking and richly chased foliate design on a hammered background. The cobalt blue porcelain vase displays a fine oval pattern and pierced rinceau shaped ormolu mounts. At each side are handsome bearded masculine faces amidst foliage, and below S scrolled handles. Each vase is finished on the inside. All original gilt.
