A handsome and statement making French mid 19th century Louis XIV st. Boulle cabinet. The cabinet is raised by a scalloped base with brass fillet inlay and centered by a fine ormolu mount of a mask and seashell. Above is a finely chased ormolu band that continues on each side. At the center is a door with a stunning exotic wood floral marquetry set within a walnut and pewter design, and ormolu trim, which opens to reveal one original shelf. Flanking the door are impressive ormolu mounts in a foliate design. Each side has an ormolu border with pierced ormolu mounts at each corner, topped by two finely chased ormolu bands. All below a fossilized black marble top. With all original gilt and warm patina throughout.
