An impressive Italian early 19th century Neo-Classical st. walnut, polychrome, giltwood and white Carrara marble center table, from Naples.

The rectangular table is raised by striking polychrome legs with most decorative hoof feet, and fine caryatids with giltwood headdresses at each corner. Richly carved giltwood snakes wrap around each leg and extend on to the elegant stretcher with a concave shape and are centered by an exceptional reeded urn. Above, the straight walnut frieze displays fine cut corners and mottled giltwood bands. Above is the original white Carrara marble top with most decorative cut corners and a finely sculpted wrap around fillet.
